$50 Readings voucher (plus finger food lunch provided at the event)	Gift provided by: Michael Coelli (Senior Lecturer, Honours Coordinator) and Professor Jeff Borland - both from Melbourne University. Gift provided for: attending an event in my capacity as an ACCC employee and my membership with the Women in Economics Network The event sought to encourage second and third year economics students to continue their studies through the honours program. Inevitably, the discussion also sought to encourage the students to pursue a career in economics and given my work experience at the ACCC, promoted the ACCC's grad and intern programs.	$50		4/09/2017 13:42			Y	Given this book voucher is less than the threshold for declaration and given the nature of the provider and circumstances, I consider this an acceptable treatment.

Invitation to attend the Lawyers Weekly Women in Law Awards - https://www.lawyersweekly.com.au/women-in-law . They are event sponsors.	Invited by Xan Coleman at Crowd & Co. He is an old friend who is now working there: see https://crowdandco.com.au/team/	Ticket worth: $324.50 (Incl. GST) - however, invited by a sponsor of the event, so they received tickets as part of overall sponsorship of the event.	I believe I have been invited given my long term interest in issues relating to women and the law, however to ensure there cannot be an impression of impropriety, I have declared the invitation.	17/10/2017 10:36	Y
